

ARCHITECTURE ARCHITECTURE ARCHITECTURE

Cook Engineering and Architecture offers a wide range of services which include: advisory and investigative services, feasibility studies, conceptual and detailed design, tender and construction contract administration, project management and post-construction services such as assistance with start up operation and maintenance of facilities and training of O & M staff.

We can respond to and provide solutions for your requirements in an environment of increasing change in technology and project complexity. Together our team encompasses expertise in a broad range of disciplines such as architectural, civil, structural, mechanical, electrical and environmental engineering disciplines. With this breadth of background, Cook Engineering & Architecture is capable of furnishing a consulting service which integrates the efforts of all requisite disciplines.

“Providing The Right Solution for Effective Results”